My headline

"Life is a ride. You gotta hang on til they kick you off."

In my own words

I'm looking for a relationship with a man who adores me and whom I adore. At this point in my life, I'm not sure I'm looking for marriage, but I am looking for my soul's match. I believe that the best relationship means we are best friends as well as lovers, yet we understand the need for each other's space and independence. We absolutely bring out the best in each other!

About me...

I am a mom to two grown, fantastic children. I am an education professional and I get joy out of my work every single day. There's nothing better than getting a good laugh from a 3rd grader's view of the world ("does anyone know what historical fiction is? "really funny?" as student asked...She meant "hysterical fiction"...ROFL!)

At this stage in my life, I know who I am and what I want, and I'm ready for a partner who matches my lust for life and who is willing to see where this goes.

How I spend my time...

I like to spend time in NYC checking out my favorite museums (The Met, MoMA, The Frick) and eating at my fave restaurants (Ilily, Taboon, Del Posto and Masseria). I love the energy, vibe and variety of the city. And, any opportunity I get, I love to travel.

Family and friends are very important to me. I have people in my life who have been friends since childhood. I still travel with my grown children whenever they have time for me. And I make new friends wherever I go.

I take care of my body. I enjoy being fit and workout regularly. If we are together, I expect that you take care of your body too. I LOVE to spend time outdoors. I am about to head to Yosemite to hike with my kids (followed by wine drinking in Napa).

When we are together...

We may be spending our time in the city, in Connecticut at the beach and traveling to places near and far. I've always wanted to go to Africa -I love giraffes! Europe has always been one of my favorite destinations – I love Italy, Spain, France – have been several times and always look forward to the next visit.

I enjoy getting together with friends. I love to pull together a delicious meal, with great wine and stimulating conversation (complete with delicious dessert).

I value a partner who is loving, open minded and a good listener. I'm insatiably curious and will take an interest in your passions and hope that you will also share mine. There's nothing more connecting than someone who really listens to what you have to say (well maybe there is, but let's start there.)

There is so much to enjoy every day – from amazing sunsets to a beautiful moon – Life is good and I appreciate it all. (Warning: I can break into spontaneous dance at any time just because I feel so damn good.)

You should message me if when reading this profile you had an irrepressible urge to get to know me and have some fun.
